The Blue Hole

Natural Monument

DISCOVER A WORLD UNKOWN

In the midst of the pristine Lighthouse Reef Atoll. This is the awe-inspiring spectacle that awaits those who venture to Belize—the Blue Hole Natural Monument. Measuring roughly 1,000 feet across and plunging to a depth of over 425 feet, the Blue Hole is a geological marvel that beckons explorers, divers, and nature enthusiasts from every corner of the globe. However, the Blue Hole isn't just a geological marvel; it's also a vibrant hub of marine life. Divers are welcomed into a thriving underwater community that includes an array of species. Schools of reef sharks, giant groupers, and colorful fish populate this underwater metropolis.

For those who dare to venture into the deep, the Blue Hole Natural Monument offers a mesmerizing glimpse into a world hidden beneath the ocean's surface. Its stunning sinkhole is like a portal to a surreal universe. Descending into the deep blue abyss, divers encounter an ethereal realm illuminated by sunlight filtering through the crystalline water above. The geological formations within the Blue Hole are nothing short of spectacular.
